

THE DAILY SENTINEL is sent by all the early morning express and freight trains, and delivered to subscribers in adjacent towns about the same time it is distributed in this city. This enables readers at a distance from the Capital of Indiana, to get the news of the day from six to twelve hours before they can receive it through papers published elsewhere. News dealers and carriers in any of the large metropolitan centers of the Union, will be supplied with the SENTINEL on as good terms as any other paper. Clubs for the Daily will be supplied at Agents' rates. Orders are solicited.

Proceedings of the State Convention.

The extra edition of the Sentinel, containing the proceedings of the 8th of January Convention, being exhausted, and to meet the additional orders we are daily receiving for them, we have concluded to publish another edition of larger type. Those of our friends who desire to order them will please do so promptly.

Price $1 per hundred.

No better document can be circulated to disseminate the public mind of the enormous impression that unscrupulous papers and politicians have attempted to create in regard to the character of the Convention and its action upon the movements issued now before the country.

Religious Items.

Rev. Joshua Wells, the oldest clergyman of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died recently at the residence of Mr. William Pitt, in Baltimore county, Md., in the 98th year of his age. Mr. W. was a native of Maryland, born in 1764, and in early life connected himself with the Methodist Church. He was contemporary with Wesley, Ashby, Whitfield, Coke, and other pioneers of that denomination, having become an itinerant preacher in 1788, when he was twenty-four years of age.

A few days since, Major General McClellan was made active member of the American Bible Society by the juveniles' Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church, N.Y. The certificate was presented to the General by Mr. Adam Warthman, of Philadelphia, and a reply will be made to the children in a few days.

Divine service will be held in all the churches in the city to-morrow.

We shall be happy to note a better observance of the Sabbath in Indianapolis, whenever we can do so with due regard to the truth.

Military Items.

Lieut. Raymond, Quartermaster of the 61st (3d Irish) regiment, was in town yesterday. He is one of the most efficient officers in the volunteer service. He has been highly complimented by Captains Ekin and McPherson for the correctness of his reports. We congratulate Colonel Mullon on having so efficient an officer. Indeed, thus far, the officers of this regiment are men of capacity. It will be the crack regiment of the State when it gets into service.

First Lieutenant Robert S. Kane, late of the 17th Indiana, has been promoted to a Captain in the 61st (3d Irish) Co. Mullon.

The Adjutant General of Iowa says Iowa has raised 14,183 infantry, 4,267 cavalry and three batteries of artillery, numbering 252 men, making an aggregate, with the addition of field and staff officers of nineteen thousand one hundred and five men.

Capt. Grimley, of the 21st regiment now located at Fort Marshall, near Baltimore, left last night with forty-seven men for his regiment, recruited by himself, Major Hall and Lieut. Ekin. This speaks well for the energy of those officers.

Within the past two days, the 52d Indiana, the 40th Indiana, the 59th Indiana and three batteries of artillery have left the State for the seat of war.

W. R. Ellis, in a letter to the Lafayette Courier, relates the following incident in connection with the recent battle near Somerset, Kentucky:

Among the thousand thrilling incidents narrated by the boys in relation to the battle of the 19th and subsequent day, perhaps none can reflect more honor upon the hero of the fight than the following:

The battle was fought on Sunday morning. The same night Colonel Munson and his patriots 10th pursued the enemy nine miles to his entrenchments on the north side of the Cumberland river, where they encamped for the night. Early on the following morning Colonel Munson crossed the river on his noble steed, and, solitary and alone, proceeded up the hill on the south side, where he found himself surrounded by over a hundred rebels who had not yet made their escape. Finding the predicament he was in, the Colonel addressed to the rebels and demanded in an imperative voice:

"Where is Gen. Crittenden?"

"Where are you?" replied an exultant Secesh with an oath.

"One of the General's aids," replied Munson, "just from Monticello, a few miles down the river, and hearing the cannonading yesterday, I came up to see what the matter was. Where is General Crittenden?"

"Left about an hour ago, sir, for the South," returned the rebels.

"Where is General Zollicoffer?" inquired Munson.

"Dead! Killed on the battle field yesterday by them 4-4 Indians," rejoined Secesh.

Having satisfied themselves that Colonel Munson was a genuine "aid" of Crittenden, he easily persuaded them to fly for their lives, lest the Hoosier boys should be again upon them, and by the presence of mind Munson saved his life, and was enabled, solely and alone, to take possession of the entire stores on the south side, "monarch of all he surveyed."

Lieut. Ekin, of the 21st regiment, detailed for the recruiting service, has been selected by Col. Simmons as the Post Adjutant here, instead of Adjutant Wood, of the 13th, who has been recalled.

The New Harbor—From the fact that the usual mode of giving command by military officers falls so harshly on the ears of sensitive privates, the following style has been adopted by some of the companies attached to a regiment of "Revere Guards," and is appropriately termed the Chesterfield Manual:

CONVINCING OFFICER.

1. Gentlemen will you please give me your attention.

2. You will be kind enough to cast your head and eyes right, and endeavor to observe the immaculate bosom of the third gentleman from you.

3. Oblige me now by casting your visual on the front.

4. Allow me to suggest the propriety of coming to an order arms.

5. Gentlemen, you will condescend to order arms.

6. You will confer a special favor by equipping to a support.

7. It is meets your approbation, I beg leave to propose that you carry arms.

8. Now, gentlemen, you will please present arms.

9. I shall consider myself under an everlasting obligation if you will deign me oblige by carrying arms.

10. Having high appreciation of your intrinsic worth, as well as your exalted position in society, I humbly trust that I am not infringing upon your good nature when I request you to trail arms.

11. Gentlemen, for the last time, permit me to remark that it is my earnest desire that you should come to a shoulder arms.

12. If it is not too laborious, I should be delighted to see you change your position by coming to a right face.

13. To conclude your arduous exercises, I will still further trespass upon your well known ability by desiring you to come to arms port.

14. Gentlemen! soldiers! breathe! Ined! Ined! If congenial to your feelings, you may consider yourselves dismissed. I beg to remark, however, that should it suit your convenience, you will be kind enough to hold a moment, subject to be again called to order. I beg to remark, however, that should it suit your convenience, you will be kind enough to hold a moment, subject to be again called to order. I beg to remark, however, that should it suit your convenience, you will be kind enough to hold a moment, subject to be again called to order.

Dr. W. B. Fletcher—This young gentleman, an exchange prisoner recently from the Confederate States, has just arrived at the Hall, to one of the most thronged audiences ever contained within its walls. It will be remembered that Dr. Fletcher, who, although a surgeon in the army, was formerly for all his life, was detailed by Gen. Reynolds as a scout sometime in August, without orders, to Cheat Mountain. He was captured and captured. His story, as he narrated it, last night, in a modest, unassuming style, riveted the attention of his audience. It abounded in anecdotes and happy hits, and we regret that we have not space to speak further of it.

The Dr. was introduced by Dr. Kitchen, and at the conclusion of his account, leaving himself in the possession of Richmond, a narrative of his experience in which he will give to-night, Gen. Reynolds, who was present, was called out. The audience greeted the hero, who spoke but briefly, with pride and exultation. One of Indiana's soldiers has returned among them whose name is inserted high upon the roll of patriot Generals.

Dr. Fletcher resumes the thread of his discourse, as we have said, this evening at the same time and place. He generously devotes the proceeds of his entertainment to the volunteer relief fund. Without doubt Masonic Hall will be again crowded to-night.

During the month of January they had but forty-five hours of sunshine in Louisville. The New Albany Ledger says there is a gang of rascals about that city engaged in the circulation of counterfeit coin.

There are now twenty-five prisoners confined in the Marion county jail—eleven of them women.

The work of fitting up the new city offices in Glens' Block progresses. They will soon be ready for occupancy.

Hay's Academy will open Monday, the 10th inst., in the rooms under Masonic Hall, fronting on Tennessee street.

Governor Morton's carriage driver was yesterday arrested and fined before His Honor the Mayor, for hitching his team to a lamp-post.

The old reliable house of W. H. Talbot & Co. is offering great inducements to purchasers of first-class jewelry and silversware. You get any amount of engraving you want, free of charge.

Another article, by express, of ladies' misses' and children's "Balmoral" shoes, pattern leather, tipped and plain, embracing an excellent assortment, and substantially made.

Miss Belle Carroll will re-open her school for boys and Misses in the basement of the Associate Reformed Church, on Ohio, between Pennsylvania and Delaware streets, on Monday next. Miss Carroll is an accomplished and thorough teacher, and her enterprise should be encouraged.

Bowen, Stewart & Co. have just received a large invoice of the popular "Fairchild pen." They warrant them for six months, and return new pens when the points come off. They are decidedly the finest gold pens in the market.

McLean Female Institute—This flourishing institution will commence its second semi-annual session on Monday next. The Rev. Charles Sturdevant, one of the most accomplished of scholars and gentlemen is Principal of the McLean Female Institute.

The great secret in buying is to know when and where to buy in order to get the best bargains. We know you can save thirty per cent. besides having your full names, date, &c., beautifully engraved by going to W. H. Talbot & Co. for jewelry and silversware.

To-night is the last night of this renowned magician at Metropolitan Hall. This afternoon, at half past 2 o'clock, little Fred, the most wonderful boy in the world, takes a benefit. Of course, all the little boys and all the little girls, and mamma, aunts, grandpas, and immediate paternal ancestors and guardians will go to see the inexplicable little Fred.

Miss Kimberly, the beautiful and gifted actress, appears at the Metropolitan on Monday night next, in the Octoroon.

The New York Store—The Messrs. Glenn, proprietors of this famous establishment, East Washington street, south side, are determined not to be surpassed in the conduct of their business by any firm in Cincinnati, Chicago, Louisville or St. Louis. In fact they rival with their splendid displays upon their counters any house in the great metropolis, New York. We understand that their buyer started East yesterday to remain during the season. The gentleman will be heard from daily in the way of shipments. The cheapest and the most costly, the best beautiful and the most durable of goods may always be obtained of the Messrs. Glenn. We particularly request the attention of ladies to this fact.

From See. Mr. McCallen, Father of Robert Chase.

Dr. C. W. ROBERT—Dear Sir: I have used your Blood Purifier for a nervous affection, from which I have suffered much at times. While it is pleasant to the taste, it certainly has a powerful effect upon the nerves. Please accept my thanks for your kind regards, and believe me, Yours,

J. W. T. McCallen.

APPLICATIONS FOR LICENSE—This is the last week that applications for license can be received for publication, so that the Board of Commissioners, March session, will be able to take up the application for license to publish at the March session should find in their notices before Sunday next, in time for the next week.

The World Would be Better for It.

If men were less for wealth and fame, and less for battle fields and glory.

If it were in human hands, a name Seemed better than in song or story.

If men, instead of turning pride, Would leave the world of gold and glory.

If more men, On love to guide, The world would be the better for it.

If men dealt less in stocks and lands, And more in honest toil and industry.

If men worked less with money and gold, And more with the sweat of their brow.

If men sold less of love and wine, And more of honest human hands would pour it.

If "yours" and "mine" Would cease to be, The world would be the better for it.

If men would be the better for it, They would be the better for it.

If men would be the better for it, They would be the better for it.

If men would be the better for it, They would be the better for it.
